Challenge: Boats elevated in dry-dock, extreme noise hazards working on steel decks.

Because boats were in dry-dock during project, all equipment and materials had to be rigged and hoisted into boats.

Steel decks presented workers with extreme noise hazards while scarifying and preparing decks for resurfacing. Personal protective equipment and hearing protection was required during entire operation.

The MJA Company's safety, personal protection and OSHA Compliance training and certifications allowed safe operation while meeting client project schedule.

Results:

Boat decks resurfaced, painting complete and surpassed expectations. The MJA Company is the contractor of choice for Maid of the Mist.
